Crossing The Border

More than 20 million vehicles cross the border between Canada and the United States. There are several free publications that provide "Know Before You Go" information and border travel tips. For detailed information, visit the Immigration & Naturalization Service web site at <http://www.uscis.gov> or visit the US Customs web site at <http://cbp.gov/>. For detailed information on Canadian Customs, visit the web site www.cbsa-asfc.gc.ca.

Some travel tips suggested for motorists crossing the border:

- You must have a passport for proof of citizenship as well as parents' letters for children traveling with friends
- Keep items & receipts ready for inspection
- Be flexible as regulations governing travel are subject to adjustment

If traveling by boat:

- Remember to call ahead to Canada/US Customs office to learn if your port is accessible
- Know your reporting requirements

THE HISTORY OF Alexandria Bay

The history of Alexandria Bay is long and eventful. From the Iroquois Indians to present day, Alexandria Bay and the 1000 Islands region has not let a moment pass it by.

Alexandria Bay and its surrounding areas have always been a location noted for its beauty, vast resources, and spiritual being. Long before Europeans settled the area, the Iroquois and Algonquin Indians spent their summer months fishing and hunting here.

Lore has it that Manitou said to the Indians: "I will give you paradise, if you stop fighting". According to legend, the Indians did not stop fighting so Manitou put paradise into a bag and threw it into the horizon. The bag broke apart and a thousand pieces fell down into the St. Lawrence River, creating the Thousand Islands.

During the American Revolution, James LeRay, better known as James Donation LeRay du Chaumont, provided goods and services to the American forces. In the early 1800's, James LeRay, purchased most of what is today Jefferson County. Many of its small towns, rivers, and lakes are named after members of his immediate family.

After the War of 1812, Colonel Elisha Camp, received ownership of the American Islands. In 1845, he in turn sold the islands to Azariah Walton for the sum of $3000. The land purchased extended from the northwest part of Wellesley Island and all the islands from Round Island in Clayton to Morristown 35 miles away. Walton joined Andrew Cornwall and together brought Alexandria Bay to a prominent position in the upcoming decades. The first island to be sold was "Manhattan Island" for the sum of $40.

Shortly after the Civil War, the popularity of the Islands increased with the improved transportation system. Wealthy sportsmen and gentlemen from leading US cities inquired into purchasing islands from private use. The social era of Alexandria Bay began when George Pullman invited General Grant (then running for President of the United States) to visit his Island home. The press traveling with General Grant wrote articles in the leading US city papers that sparked an interest that resulted in the explosion of recreation in the Alexandria Bay area.

Among the list of wealthy gentlemen who purchased islands are Dr. JG Holland, editor of Scribner's magazine (also started the first library in Alexandria Bay; now the site of the Chamber of Commerce building); Abraham Abraham & Nathan Straus, head of Macy's Department store; George Pullman of the Pullman sleeping car fame; Charles Emery, an American tobacco executive; Commodore Frederick Bourne, Singer Sewing Machine Co; and George Boldt, proprietor of the Waldorf Hotel.

The 18th Amendment to the Constitution (Prohibition) created a lucrative business in the 1000 Islands area. While little information is available, stories have been handed down over the generations regarding local captains who knew the St. Lawrence River and its many inlets, making the trip between the US and Canadian borders to bring back sacks full of alcohol. If the law got to close, the sacks were easy to throw over the side. Divers today who visit the area, can still find bottles at the bottom of the St. Lawrence River.

Today, Alexandria Bay and the 1000 Islands Region are an international destination for a wide variety of tourists. Because we are not located on a super highway, Alexandria Bay and the surrounding area have maintained their original quaint characteristics. Whether you are looking for family activities, world class fishing, romantic evenings, top-notch dive sites, or just a little relaxation, Alexandria Bay is the place to be!

WELCOME TO Boldt Castle

During the Civil War, a poor Immigrant arrived in New York, penniless and unknown. His name was George Boldt. Before he died, he was to gather a huge fortune and leave a gigantic unfinished house of history on one of New York State's most beautiful islands. George Boldt's two ambitions in life were to be the head of a large hotel and to someday build a castle like those he had seen in Europe during his boyhood.

In the 1890's, George Boldt and his wife Louise paid a visit to the 1000 Islands Region. He saw an island that he fell in love with at first sight. After a few more visits to this island, his second dream became a reality when he began building a replica of a Rhine Castle.

Boat tours from both the U.S. and Canada stop at Heart Island. Extensive docking is available for private water craft. A shuttle from Heart Island provides access to the Boldt Castle Yacht House.

Boldt Castle is owned and operated by the Thousand Islands Bridge Authority. The Thousand Islands International Bridge is the major link between 1301 in New York State and Highway 401 in Ontario, Canada as well as the Seaway Trail and the Heritage Highway.

The island's original name was "Hart Island" after its previous owner Elizur Kirke Hart. After George Boldt acquired the island, he re-designed the shape of the island to resemble the shape of a heart. From that time forward, the island was renamed "Heart Island".

The Love Story surrounding the castle is a sad one. George Boldt was building the castle as a tribute to his wife Louise. While being built, Louise suddenly died and the craftsmen on the island received a cable to stop all work. The castle was never completed.

After years of neglect, vandalism, and the elements, the Thousand Islands Bridge Authority purchased the historic castle and has done major renovations to show the grandeur that was to be.

Today, Boldt Castle has become the #1 attraction in the 1000 Islands Region and is a must to see!

HISTORY OF Singer Castle

Bluff Island, also known as Dark Island and Lone Star, was sold to Frederick Gilbert Bourne of New York City by William Henry Harison, his wife Mary Francis, and Noble Wymberly Harison, for $5000 on December 3, 1902. The island due west of Chippewa Bay and northwest of Cedar Island was said to contain 15 acres, more or less.

Frederick Bourne commissioned Ernest Flagg, a New York City architect, to design a castle hunting lodge on Dark Island. Bourne stipulated that the structure was not to imitate any existing castle. Flagg had recently read Woodstock by Sir Walter Scott which was set in "The Towers", a hunting lodge castle used by royalty near Woodstock, England. Flagg incorporated descriptions of the book's castle, torn down in the early 1700's to design Bourne's castle - complete with towers, turrets, secret passageways, and underground tunnel, and even a turret dungeon. Construction began in the spring of 1903 and involved 100 masons. Granite was quarried from Oak Island and sandstone came from the quarry in Hammond. The castle was completed and first used in the fall of 1905. The castle contains 28 rooms, 10 fireplaces and 8 bathrooms as well as 2 boathouses, 2 ice houses, a skiff house, and a bath house. There are passageways throughout the castle and each passageway entrance is hidden or blended in the walls and has a mechanical and an electrical means of opening.

The family used the castle for several weeks each year in the summer and fall. Emma Bourne died in 1916 and a son, Howard, died in 1918. Mr. Bourne died in 1919, leaving an estate of $43 million to his seven surviving children, who could not agree on its distribution. On June 12, 1919, Dark Island and all its buildings were sold for $389,000 to Marjorie Bourne and her sister May Bourne Strassburger. Marjorie was given lifetime use of the island by the Strassburgers in 1921.

Marjorie married Alexander Thayer in December 1926. In 1928 Marjorie had a separate squash court built for her husband's birthday and added a sports therapy room and a bedroom on the third floor. The wooden piazza below it was converted to stone to support the new wing. On December 27, 1961, Marjorie Thayer sold Dark Island to LaSalle Military Academy for less than $100. In 1965, LaSalle had no use for Dark Island and sold it on April 17, 1965 to the Harold Martin Evangelistic Society for $35,000. The Martins changed the name of the island and castle to Jorstadt and held religious services and retreats from May to October. In the 1980's, Mrs. Martin's health kept her from the island and the ministry was carried on by Harvey & Flo Jones.

In 2002, the island was sold to Dark Island Tours. The property, renamed Singer Castle on Dark Island, still has many original furnishings and is open May to October for guided tours, weddings, and overnight stays in the Royal Suite.

Swimming & Picnicking

Our Scenic View Park offers landlubbers a thoroughly enjoyable day on the River. Located on Sisson St, this park is the best-kept secret in the Bay. There's a sandy beach with lifeguard on duty, acres of picnic areas, barbeque grills, and a covered pavilion with restrooms. Take a walk across the mini version of the TI Bridge to Casino Island where you can spend the afternoon watching boats and catch sight of a freighter or two. In the evening, watch a breathtaking sunset over Boldt Castle

“The beauty of this noble stream at almost any point but especially in the commencement of this journey, where it winds its way among the thousand islands can hardly be imagined. The number and constant successions of these islands, all green and richly wooded, their fluctuating sizes, some so large that for half an hour together one among them will appear as the opposite bank of the river, and some so small, that they are mere dimples on its broad bosom; their infinite variety of shape; and numberless combinations of beautiful forms which the trees growing on them present: all forms a picture fraught with uncommon interest and pleasure”

Dickens, 1910—A History of Recreation in the 1000 Islands by Susan W. Smith
